The next returning planetary hour
Of Mars, who shar'd the heptarchy of pow'r,
His steps bold Arcite to the temple bent. Dryden.
HER. pron. [hepa, hep, in Saxon, flood for their, or of them, which at length became the female possessive.]

1. Belonging to a female; of a she; of a woman:
About his neck

A green and gilded snake had wreath'd itself,
Who with her head, nimble in threats, approach'd
The opening of his mouth. Shakefp. As you like it.
Still new favourites she chose,
Till up in arms my passion rose,
And cast away her yoke. Cowley.

One month, three days, and half an hour,
Judith held the sov'reign pow'r;
Wond'rous beautiful her face;
But so weak and small her wit,
That she to govern were unfit,
And so Susanna took her place. Cowley.

2. The oblique case of she.
Her sceptre so fantastically borne,
That fear attends her not. Shakespeare's Henry V.

She cannot seem deform'd to me,
And I would have her seem to others so. Cowley.
The moon arose clad o'er in light,
With thousand stars attending on her train;
With her they rise, with her they set again. Cowley.

Should I be left, and thou be lost, the sea,
That bury'd her I lov'd, should bury me. Dryden.

HERS. pronoun. This is used when it refers to a substantive going before: as, such are her charms, such charms are hers.

This pride of hers,
Upon advice, hath drawn my love from her. Shakespeare.

I mine own unworthiness,
Will still that thou art mine not hers confests. Cowley.
Some secret charm did all her acts attend,
And what his fortune wanted, hers could mend. Dryden.

I bred you up to arms, rais'd you to power,
Indeed to give a crown, not hers, but yours. Dryden.

HERALD. n. f. [herault, French; herald, German.]
1. An officer whose business it is to register genealogies, adjust ensigns armorial, regulate funerals, and anciently to carry messages between princes, and proclaim war and peace:

May none, whose scatter'd names honour my book,
For staid degrees of rank or title look;
'Tis 'gainst the manners of an epigram,
And I a poet here, no herald am. Ben. Jonson's Epigrams.

When time shall serve, let but the herald cry,
And I'll appear again. Shakefp. King Lear.

After my death I with no other herald,
No other speaker of my living actions,
But such an honest chronicler as Griffith. Shakefp. Hen. VIII.

Embassador of peace, if peace you chuse;
Or herald of a war, if you refuse. Dryden's Ind. Emperor.

Please thy pride, and search the herald's roll,
Where thou shalt find thy famous pedigree. Dryden.

2. A precursor; a forerunner; a harbinger.
It is the part of men to fear and tremble,
When the most mighty gods, by tokens, send
Such dreadful heralds to astonish us. Shak. Julius Caesar.

It was the lark, the herald of the morn.
To herald a. a. [from the noun.] To introduce as an herald. A word not used.

We are sent
To give thee from our royal master thanks;
